James Engine

A medium-sized engine, James likes to think of himself as a really splendid engine. This can occasionally lead to grandiose ideas about the sort of work suitable for such a noble creature, which invariably lands James in trouble. Pocket-sized, die-cast James engine. Features "Smart Magnets" that connect either way and an exclusive collector's card. Measures 5 1/8" long.

Percy Engine

A junior member of the principal team of engines. This little chap is normally quite happy puffing around the yard. He's always keen to oblige, a fact of which the other engines are apt to take advantage. Pocket-sized, die-cast Percy engine. Features "Smart Magnets" that connect either way and an exclusive collector's card. Measures 3" long.

Salty Engine

Salty is an old diesel engine who loves working at the docks and telling tales. Kids can watch and play along as Salty works his way around Brendham Docks. This dockside diesel is a hard-working engine who loves to tell tales of his life by the sea. He occasionally works in the quarry and elsewhere on the Island of Sodor, but he's happiest down by the docks. Salty is a little rough around the edges but has a big heart

Fergus

Fergus has a spinning flywheel and moving piston. He is painted blue-purple with red wheels, and although he vaguely resembles Trevor the Traction Engine, Fergus runs on rails, unlike Trevor.

Fergus shunts trucks at the Cement Works. He is reliable and down-to-earth, and knows the Rule Book by heart! Unsurprisingly, he's resistant to change and can be irritated when other engines "muck about". However, he is a decent engine at heart and will not hesitate to help other engines who are in trouble. Measures 2.875".
